DRAFT
23 July 1975

NSC Declassification/Release Instructions on File

MEMORANDUM FOR: Lieutenant General Brent Scowcroft, USAF
Deputy Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs

SUBJECT: The NSCIC Working Group

1. I think that I owe you, as the incoming Chairman of the NSCIC Working Group, my thoughts on how the work of this body has developed in the recent past and how its activities and procedures might best be handled in the future.

2. Last March I proposed a tentative work program for the Group which had three basic elements: briefings, informational papers, and action projects.

3. Briefings, on the functioning of the National Intelligence Officers, aspects of intelligence warning, the Mayaguez affair, SALT and MBFR, have been designed to provide the type of background data which would lend support to Working Group efforts. I believe the Group can continue to benefit from having about one briefing per meeting. (Attachment A is a draft agenda for the next meeting which proposes a briefing on the Middle East.)

4. Informational papers, on such subjects as "Consumer Contact Points with Production Elements of the Intelligence Community," and "The DCI's 'Family' of National Intelligence Guidance Documents," have been developed by my staff in response to comments and questions raised during our meetings. ([] has these papers.) My staff has also been working on a paper dealing with the difficult and long-standing problem of expressing uncertainty in intelligence estimates. (I am turning to some knowledgeable people in CIA for assistance on this problem; meanwhile, I see some value in having it known in the Community that the subject still engages the interest of the consumers.)

5. We have not, thus far, responded to a request from Admiral Hilton for a "Handbook on the US Intelligence Community," which would show the Community structure, with its organizations, committees, boards, panels, etc., and their membership. Parts of this subject are already addressed in the "Consumer Contact Points" paper, while certain organizational aspects, as you can appreciate, are moving targets these days.

6. Working Group action projects, have so far involved, for example, the members' comments on this year's draft DCI Objectives for the Intelligence Community, Perspectives for Intelligence, and Key Intelligence Questions. I would consider it appropriate in the future for the Working Group to provide the Community with consumer evaluations of important intelligence products, such as selected NIEs, SNIEs, NIAMs, and current intelligence publications--e.g., the NID or NIB and the DIN.

7. In my view, the action projects are really what the Working Group is all about. My draft of the Terms of Reference (Attachment B) proposes a committee structure which would, I think, permit the Group to proceed with its work in an orderly way. I believe that, in this context, it is extremely important to maintain the distinction between the work we in the Intelligence Community can do in support of the Group's activities and the work which the members of the Group (and their staffs) should provide themselves. The principle at work here is, to me, quite simple: the members should represent or reflect the views of consumers, not the attitudes and preconceptions of the Community or any of its several parts.

8. I can, of course, provide you as the Working Group Chairman with informational papers and briefings, and I can continue to provide an Executive Secretary for the Group, should this prove necessary. But if there is to be a separate "Consumer Evaluation and Guidance Panel" (by whatever name), I think it should be composed of and staffed by users rather than intelligence officers. (And I have incorporated that concept in the draft Terms of Reference.)

9. Perhaps this matter could be clarified at the next meeting. And perhaps the discussion of the Terms of Reference should deal in detail with such questions as the composition of the membership and the frequency of the meetings of the Working Group subcommittees.

10. Another issue pertinent to the Terms of Reference is whether the NSCIC Working Group should, as Mr. Morell of the Treasury Department advocates, "make recommendations for improvements in intelligence structure and organization." Based on his reading of the interest of the Rockefeller and Murphy Commissions and the Senate Select Committee in organizational matters, Mr. Morell would have us go beyond the charter provided by NSCID No. 1 (February 1972) which says that NSCIC

"will give direction and guidance on national substantive intelligence needs and provide for a continuing evaluation of intelligence products from the viewpoint of the intelligence consumer."

11. I think Mr. Morell's proposal would in effect force the Group to engage in unwise and unauthorized activities, and therefore I oppose it. It is one thing for customers to comment to a super-market chain about the quality of meat and produce, but quite another for them to issue specific guidelines on feeding poultry and fertilizing vegetables. There probably will be discussion of this issue, however, and altogether some 30-40 minutes might be needed to cover this and other issues associated with the Terms of Reference (agenda item c).

12. Your pressing schedule probably would make it difficult for you to review the files on previous Working Group activities. But you might, in addition to considering the proposed agenda and Terms of Reference, wish to look over the draft minutes of the last meeting (Attachment C) to gain some idea of the "tone" of the discussions.
